

Public Health Response to Chemical Terrorism and Chemical Emergencies

Course Instructors

A.J. "Bud" Fekete, CEM is a retired Deputy Chief of the Louisville Division of Fire/Rescue where he was in charge of Operations and Personnel. Chief Fekete designed and manages the CDC-funded Community Based Emergency Response (CBER) training program at the Louisville/Jefferson (KY) Metro Health Department.

Richard Nickle, BS, MPH is an Emergency Response Coordinator with the U.S. Public Health Service/ATSDR. He has worked in the Coast Guard's Pollution Response Program, EPA's Removal Program, EPA's Remedial Program, EPA's Enforcement Program, and the Health and Human Services Emergency Response Program.

Erik Janus, MS is a Toxicologist with the MDCH Chemical Terrorism Unit providing public health expertise in chemical exposures, environmental fate and transport issues, risk assessment, and risk communication.

John Tilden, DVM, MPH is the Manager of the Food Safety Planning and Response Unit at the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA). He is currently involved in food safety and food security projects involving government agencies, food industries, and academic institutions.

Suzanne White, MD is the Medical Director at the Children's Hospital of Michigan Regional Poison Control Center and Professor-Clinician Educator, Emergency Medicine & Pediatrics, at Wayne State University School of Medicine.

William Fales, MD is an Associate Professor for the Michigan State University Kalamazoo Center for Medical Studies' Department of Emergency Medicine, EMS Medical Director for Kalamazoo County, and serves as Regional Medical Director for the 5th District Bioterrorism Preparedness Project.

Denise Bryan, MPA is a Communicable Disease Program Supervisor for Kent County Health Department working in the area of STD, HIV, TB, and disease investigation and follow-up for the last ten years. She has been a lead investigator in many outbreaks and unusual occurrences.

Michelle Napier-Dunnings, MFA of Pearl Partners, LLC has worked nationally with a variety of private and public organizations including engineering and telecommunications companies, state government, and community service agencies.

We would like to acknowledge the following for their participation in this course:

Planning Committee:

Jay Fiedler
Lisa Hainstock
Yael Hoffman
Erik Janus
Susan Manente
Rosemarie Rowney
Jim Rutherford
Martha Stanbury
John Tilden

Environmental Health
Focus Group:

Carol Austerberry
Jim Draz
Steven Hall
Jim Helmstetter
Bill Hinz
Gene Paez
Eric Pessel
Jim Rutherford
Mike Shafer
Steve Tackitt
Linda Vail Buzas

Subject Matter
Expert Panel:

Bob Babcock
Fred Benzie
Dr. Bill Fales
Bud Fekete
Steve Lehman
Jack Messer
Richard Nickle
Jim Rutherford
Dr. Suzanne White